

The Side of the Moon that faces Earth is as big as the United States & Canada combined. For the Moon's farside, add in all of South America.

Mars, without oceans, has as much land surface as all of Earth's continents put together.